COOKIES

Cookies are small files used by websites to store basic information about site visitors and their interactions on a website. Cookies are stored on a harddrive and allow a website to recognise your computer when you revisit or browse between pages.

Many sites use cookies and these cannot harm your computer or computer files.

We may use cookies to:

- Analyse our web traffic using an analytics package. Aggregated usage data helps us improve the website structure, design, content and functions.

- Test content on our website. For example, 50% of our users might see one piece of content, the other 50% a different piece of content.
- Store information about your preferences. The website can then present you with information you will find more relevant and interesting.
- To recognise when you return to our website. We may show your relevant content, or provide functionality you used previously.

You can use your web browser's cookie settings to determine how our website uses cookies. If you do not want our website to store cookies on your computer or device, you should set your web browser to refuse cookies. However, please note that doing this may affect how our website functions. Some pages and services may become unavailable to you. Unless you have changed your browser to refuse cookies, our website will issue cookies when you visit it.

We do not track use of the internet after you leave the website.

DATA PROTECTION

We will never hold any visitor data.

COPYRIGHT
